Government of Chhattisgarh, as the Chief Guest, alongside the Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, Prof. Sachchidanand Shukla, Head of the Department of Law, Prof. Rajeev Choudhary, Assistant Professor Dr. Priya Rao, guest faculty, staff, and students of the department.

The event aimed to promote legal awareness and deepen understanding of the Indian Constitution. Students contributed to this objective through impactful performances, including street plays, dances, and musical presentations.

In his address, Hon'ble Shri Rajnish Srivastava inspired the students by recounting his struggles during his academic journey. He emphasized that success does not solely depend on being a topper but on consistent hard work. He referred to the Constitution as a profound socio-spiritual document and a way of life, underscoring its role in guiding ethical actions. He encouraged students to extend their knowledge beyond the prescribed curriculum and utilize it for societal welfare.

Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, Prof. Sachchidanand Shukla, highlighted the innate connection between law and human life, acknowledging the Indian Constitution as the world's largest and most inclusive document, which upholds democracy and safeguards cultural diversity. He urged law students to demonstrate unwavering commitment to the Constitution and work for the greater public good.

Prof. Rajeev Choudhary, Head of the Department of Law, addressed the students, emphasizing the Constitution's focus on justice and education. He reminded them of their responsibility to strengthen the judicial system and elevate the standard of legal education.

The program also paid tribute to freedom fighters and the architects of the Indian Constitution. Serious social issues such as witch-hunting, human trafficking, and untouchability were poignantly portrayed through plays, songs, and dances. The event concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by the organizing secretary Dr. Priya Rao, Assistant Professor, School of Studies in Law.
